A meeting of Stukeley Parish Council was held on 7th November at 19.15pm at The Club 4 Meeting Room, Second Floor, Alconbury Weald.

Present: Cllr T Pinner (chairman), Cllr G Evans, Cllr P Tuck, Cllr P Pearce, Cllr SJ Gaule, Cllr T Sanderson, Joe Quemby (chairman of the village hall committee), Tom Leonard (sports development officer HDC).

Emily Pacey – Clerk and Responsible Financial Officer.

Cllr T Close, Cllr S Burton, Cllr P Digby & Cllr A Blackwell sent their apologies

Tom Leonard from Huntingdon District Council gave a presentation on their Parish Sports Programme that they deliver in partnership with parish councils across the district. It was advised if the PC wish to go ahead with this programme for the Easter half term, they will need to confirm this by February.

Cllr T Sanderson advised the following –

Fly tipping around Great Stukeley – Cllr T Pinner advised he will deal with this.

Advised the 20mph speed limit on Alconbury Weald can't be implemented as the roads haven't been adopted by Cambridgeshire County Council – the clerk advised she will email Rachel from U&C to see if they can instal 20mph speed signs on Alconbury Weald.

It was agreed for Stukeley Parish Council to hold an open day at Great Stukeley Village Hall for residents with financial difficulties. Organisations such as Citizens Advice, Christians Against Poverty, Huntingdon District Council and Anglian Water are hoping to attend. Stukeley PC are also looking at different ways to support foodbanks.

The neighbourhood plan is going through its final consultation the appointed examiner continues to examine the plan. The consultation ends on the 10th of November, an update will be at December's PC meeting.

The PC were happy and confident that Little Stukeley Village Hall have met all their criteria for the Stukeley Village Hall extension to go ahead.

It was agreed for Stukeley Village Hall Committee to appoint a project manager for this project.

Sewer Gas Smell – Mill Road, Little Stukeley – the PC discussed the sewer gas smell that keeps occurring at Mill Road, Little Stukeley. This has been raised with U&C and Anglian Water. U&C advised they are treating this as their top priority and are in talks with Anglian Water on how to resolve this. U&C advised they have got a tanker flushing the sewer system on the 8th of November for a short-term fix whilst they work through some potential tweaks to the way the pump station works; with the expectation this will resolve once and for all.

Date of next meeting is 5th December 2022 – Great Stukeley Village Hall.

A SEASONAL “THANK YOU’ TO ALL OF OUR PARISH MAGAZINE DELIVERERS

Our Editor Martyn Fox, and I, join in sincerely thanking all our monthly STUKELEY MAGAZINE deliverers for their much appreciated HARD WORK in ensuring that you receive the PARISH MAGAZINE every month of the year come sun, rain, or snow.

Without our volunteers in both Great and Little Stukeley we would not have the pleasure of keeping up with each other’s news and learning about our local services. Without them it would not be the same living in the STUKELEYS.

A very MERRY CHRISTMAS to our deliverers and Martyn and I wish you all a very HAPPY, SAFE & PROSPEROUS NEW YEAR.

DELIVERY of the monthly STUKELEYS PARISH MAGAZINE

I personally delivered my very first monthly Parish Magazine-the May 2016 issue on 28th April 2016.

For personal reasons I am letting you know that after nearly 6 years I am giving up coordinating the delivery of now nearly five hundred copies each month. My final delivery to you will be the December 2022 issue.

You will be pleased to learn that I have been able to organize my replacement who will be taking over with the January 2023 issue.

Tom Sanderson, who lives in Stukeley Meadows, is very much looking forward to meeting all our current deliverers in due course.

I would like to thank all my HARD-WORKING deliverers from both Great and Little Stukeley. What would I have done without you all these years!

Again, my grateful thanks for your kind efforts and I wish a Very Happy Christmas and a Prosperous 2023 to you all.

Mary Alleyne-James

Bob Hulstrom's enlightening thoughts for the day.

I was very pleased to see that the doomsayers and scaremonger's who predicted massive death and injury statistics due to the new traffic calming, especially at the Huntingdon end junction of the village have been proved wrong. The objective of removing a large percentage of traffic from the village has been achieved and without bloodshed. Well done both the Parish Council and UNC for your enlightened actions on this point.

Talking of enlightened actions I note that the Duchess of Sussex, Meghan Markle, is being lambasted in the press once again. Well, I have collated below ways that we can learn from this humanitarian award winner by restating some of her thinking;

Many of us have been watching in awe at the profound impact that Meghan and Harry's Oprah interview has had on the fight against endemic injustice. There has been an outpouring of empathy for the Duchess's suffering at the hands of the British press. Not only has she had to live through the public spectacle of a royal wedding, but she has also had to endure the indignity of public scrutiny every time she wishes to travel by private jet. This is not how a victim should be treated. The Duchess has challenged one of the oldest institutions on earth. She shows us that the world can be turned upside down when the power of suffering is successfully harnessed.

Find your voice

The Duchess is living proof that now is the time to find your inner victim and unleash her/him/they for the greater good. There is an oppressed person within all of us, just waiting to get out. Your subjugation may be latent and inert, but with hard work you can nurture it into an effective victim identity. Look to Meghan for your inspiration. If a Duchess can identify her inner victim there is hope for the rest of us.

Be inspired

If you find that reading books or studying history is too difficult, simply turn on the telly and watch some cartoons. This is how Meghan discovered the oppression-busting idol, the Little Mermaid. Although the Little Mermaid wasn't forced to sit at the back of a bus, face workplace discrimination or denied the vote, she did struggle to confine herself to gender-species norms as a semi aquatic being. Mermaids have always suffered from the unwarranted lust of imperial sailors. They are directly linked to colonial oppression.

Speak your truth

Once you have developed your victim identity, it will be time for you to 'speak your truth'. This announces your presence to the world and ensures that, not only will you be listened to, but you will also be believed. Your truth may diverge from real events, but you will be judged by your skill in narrative construction, rather than the presentation of facts. As Meghan has shown, life is about the stories we tell ourselves.

Play Your Part

Remember that 'your truth' can only become 'our truth' if we have an emotional connection with your reality. Just like Meghan, you must learn your lines, but it is equally important to emote. Try tilting your head to the side, widening your watery eyes and presenting your 'I know .. I know .. I couldn't believe it either' face. Ask a friend to nod supportively as you elucidate your pain.

Feel your power

Do not waste time demonstrating that you are a kind, compassionate human being. Simply state that you are these things. Refuse to accept duties that are not enhancing to your own sense of self worth. If cutting ribbons is too burdensome, cut ties with family instead. The past is only there to constrain you. Like Meghan, you should not ponder the reason why you have the platform that you do; your power is innate and has nothing to do with, say, your title. Remember, power has shifted to those who pretend that they are powerless. Meghan shows us that being silenced is better than being silent.

Thoughts to the editor.

Church services for December 2022

I imagine that most people are hurtling towards Christmas – the shopping, the plans for the 'big day', the visitors or the travel arrangements. We're so busy preparing for Christmas Day, and what will, or won't be happening, that we often forget to prepare for what Christmas is all about.

The church has a time of preparation, called Advent, that begins on the 4th Sunday before Christmas and carries on until nightfall on the day before Christmas. We remember the story of God's love for the world, and God's promise to sustain it; of God's promise to send a child to be both king and rejected servant; of peace and hope and love and what those mean to us today and to others across the world. We hear the stories of those told 'not to be afraid' and listen to the song of a young girl who spoke of the world turned upside down by God's love. And we think what that might mean for us, and our world. And then, as we celebrate the birth of that baby, we rejoice that, yes, it might turn out ok; yes, God has got it in his hands. This Advent, in between the rushing, find some time to think 'what does all this mean' John Betjeman, in his famous poem, 'Christmas' asks, 'And is it true' For, as Betjeman ends his poem 'Christmas' for if it is, none of our rushing around 'can with this single Truth compare - That God was man in Palestine. And lives today in Bread and Wine.'
