STUKELEYS AT FIFTY

It was October 1970 that saw the first issue of STUKELEYS which was distributed to every house in Great and Little Stukeley. Looking through the monthly copies of the first four years of STUKELEYS, they seem, fifty years on, so amateurish – being duplicated and with no advertisements. But they do capture the warmth and friendship which we encountered in the years we lived at 20 Church Road – our first home.

Maurice Newman greatly welcomed the idea of a monthly magazine, but was adamant it must be more than another Church magazine, written by the Vicar (as he was of Great Stukeley) and Rector (of Little Stukeley) – the two parishes had only recently been put together. This was in fact to be a major challenge of the magazine – to help bond the parishes together, as conveyed by the title chosen for the magazine.

A flyer was put through every door in September 1970, which read:

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT

The Stukeleys are going to have their first parish magazine. It will be called STUKELEYS.

THIS IS OUR AIM

It will come out monthly – it will be for you and by you – giving news about everything going on in the Stukeleys. It will have articles by people living in the Stukeleys, and everyone will receive a copy. But first of all, will you write something for this magazine? It does not matter how young you are – or old!! Write something funny, sad, miserable ... but write something! Give your contribution to Mr Papworth, 48 Church Road; Mrs Gifford in Little Stukeley, or leave it at the Glendale Stores, where there will be a box for contributions.

The contributions for each issue written on various pieces of paper, or as messages jotted down from phone calls, were passed to us by the 20th of the month, and we collated and copy-typed the magazine. The cover was chosen, and stencils were cut in time for a group of willing volunteers to assemble around the church duplicator, which churned out the individual pages. Others stapled the pages together, and Elsie and Arthur Quinlan took them to the local distributors, or in many cases, delivered copies themselves to arrive at every house by the first day of the month.

Maurice Newman wrote in the first issue, 'We want this to be a really corporate effort, not a One Man Band ... we want to listen to people, understand their interests and concerns, help them to get in touch with each other and feel that they belong to each other. We want our village to be more than a dormitory where people sleep; we want to make it a live community.'

As well as reports from the British Legion, Evergreen Club, Parish Council and Village Hall Committee, and many more, individual villagers wrote articles, submitted poems, and proffered jokes. Newcomers to the villages were welcomed, and farewells announced for those leaving. Artists of all ages submitted cover designs – memorable ones from those early months were of the Little Stukeley church brass, a very fine owl and a picture for children to colour. There was soon a children's page written by Penny Langley.

Looking back through those early issues, they seem both so innocent in content and primitive in production – but then perhaps the same thing will be thought by someone looking through today's STUKELEYS in fifty years' time – our lives have changed, and will continue to do so at such a pace.

For the two of us, the production of the monthly magazine played a big part in our lives for four years. Our role as editors was not known to many of the villagers, and it was only when we left Great Stukeley that the Vicar revealed the part that we had played in establishing this project. It is good to know that the magazine continues today, and we trust that it will continue to flourish in the future.

Alconbury Weald

Dear Readers of The Stukeleys Parish Magazine,

You have probably noticed that we have the logo above on our front cover for the first time. It is the logo of Alconbury Weald as the Alconbury Weald is now part of the Parish of The Stukeleys.

I, as Chairman, would like to welcome all the new residents and hope that they will be very happy in their new homes. We would like to be able to offer them the facilities inside the villages. The village halls, churches and access to village activities.

Terry Pinner

Chairman

The Stukeleys Parish Council

Dear Readers in Alconbury Weald,

I echo Terry's words and welcome you as readers of the Stukeleys Parish Magazine.

I look forward to receiving contributions from you for inclusion in the magazine.

I look forward to hearing from you.

Martyn Fox

Editor

The Stukeleys Parish Magazine

Recently I have received a few emails from people who are under the misapprehension that the Stukeleys Parish Magazine is a Church magazine. This is not the case.

It is a magazine for the people in Great & Little Stukeley, and more recently including Alconbury Weald, to be told what is going on the area. It has a report by the Parish Council to let us know what they are doing on our behalf. The Magazine is delivered free of charge to over 800 households. The cost of the Stukeleys Parish Magazine is covered by the Parish Council and revenue from advertising.

Anyone who wishes to air their views can send in items to be included in the magazine. The opinions expressed are not necessarily those of the Editor or of the Parish Council.

As Editor, I must remain impartial and do not usually give an opinion.

I have had a few people say they were upset by two items in the September issue. Their comments were about the items by Bob Hulstrom and Philip Hopson.

One person asked me not to include their email in the magazine but to forward the comments to Bob Hulstrom. One comment came via text and was signed Anon so I presume they didn't want me to include their comments in the magazine. A further three were emailed and signed by name and these are on this and the next two pages.

A sixth was emailed to me and threatened to contact the Parish Council. I replied saying I was sorry he was upset by the items. He was not content with this and threatened to contact Jonathan Djanogly, our local MP. I am not sure what he thought that would do but I have not included his email in this month's magazine.

I am sorry that they were offended by the items and will keep their comments in mind in the future.

Martyn Fox
Editor

Dear Mr Fox,

We write in response to the two letters published last month by Bob Hulstrom and Philip Hobson.

We understand that many people in the locality may share the sentiments expressed, however, many others do not.

In light of that we would question the appropriateness of using a parish magazine as a vehicle for an advocacy of unkindness.

We feel there may be more suitable periodicals for this promulgation, leaving the choice to purchase or otherwise to the reader.

Anne Murphy and Peter Graham

A response to the letter by Bob Hulstrom

“I still think the teenagers of today are a pain and should be shot at dawn !!”

I'm presuming that you are old, as it's clearly been so long since you were a teenager that you have forgotten what it is like.

I also presume that you don't have any children or grandchildren to remind you – at least I hope you don't, as they might have been treated badly by you as teenagers.

I have 2 grown up children (who were once teenagers) and 4 teenage nephews, aged 16 – 18 years. Not only have they had a tough year, they are going to have a tough life;

- Gone are the days of picking and choosing a job – like it was for you.
- Did you have to get into debt at university to get a degree to get a decent job & earn a living?
- Did you struggle to earn enough to save for a deposit & buy your own home?
- Did you have the constant pressure of social media and all that this fast-changing world brings?

Don't answer these questions as no one will care. I expect that you have retired on the sort of pension that isn't available anymore, certainly not to teenagers, but they will be contributing to society and paying to support you for years to come.

Teenagers today are growing up in a world that we – and you – created. This year they have missed out on their education, university places, friends, parties, jobs and other opportunities. The teenagers that I know have been optimistic and have made the most of their personal situations and I am certain that they will thrive, succeed and be happy.

I wish them all the luck in this difficult world and want to reassure them that people do care about their futures as they are our future.

One of these teenagers that you have such disdain for will become my doctor or do my hip replacement or cataract surgery, or feed me when in care.

Have you heard of Karma Bob ? Google it

Dear Martyn,

Firstly, thank you for editing and producing the Stukeley Parish Magazine, we are avid readers every month and it helps us, with three young children and busy lives, keep connected to the village. Especially important in recent times, when we have all felt some type of isolation, I am sure. As our children get older and a little less “energetic”, we hope to become a larger part of the community.

However, we were taken aback by a couple of statements in the “Opinion Piece”, labelled “the EXAM question” and “Immigrants from Calais”.

In the former, we were really appalled by the final sentence – “I still feel the teenagers of today are a pain and should be shot at dawn!!”. A joke we are sure, but one in poor taste and designated against a group of people who have had an incredibly hard 6 months of uncertainty, at a crucial time that could determine the course their adult lives will take.

We are not sure we would feel part of a community that thought shooting us was a joke.

In the piece “Immigrants from Calais” there was a comment about “bleeding heart liberal minded well-wishers”. This is such divisive language and is endemic of our time – us and them. Why can’t we have differing opinions without pot shots and negative labels towards people who don’t share our views?

We were dismayed that this sort of flippant and derogatory commentary is in a magazine aimed at pulling together a community, not one that promotes a divisive narrative.

Language is so important and whilst we all welcome different opinions and are always happy to read them, please can we avoid insults, inflammatory remarks and jokes at others expense.

If you feel that this letter would add value to the community by publishing, we would be happy for you to do so.

BAMBI II is HOME!

Hello,

It's Bambi I, the ornament from Mrs. Mary Alleyne-James' garden, with wonderful news!

The Mystery is solved!

I woke up recently and Bambi II, my mate, was home!

How she got here or where she went and who took her, is of no concern - Bambi II is back safe and sound with no damage and now all is well again in our garden. All the other ornaments are very pleased now that things are back to normal and they can get a good night's sleep.

As you know I was very worried. Remember, you are responsible for the safety of your ornaments so please check on them regularly and make sure that they are all accounted for and are safe, sound and in good repair. They are your friends; they ask very little from you and help to brighten up your life at this very difficult time.

Lots of Love

Email in Response to Terry Pinner's Letter

Terry Pinner's letter in the September edition of the Stukeleys Parish Magazine is correct. The proposed "Pocket Park" in Great Stukeley is not a District Council project.

In the first line of the article "Improvements To Open Spaces in The Stukeleys" in the recent newsletter from local Councillors we did state clearly that it is the Parish Council who are behind the project.

Tom Sanderson
District Councillor

Beware!

On Thursday 3rd September in Church Road, Great Stukeley, a van was broken into. Some tools were stolen and the rear door was damaged.

Is Anyone Interested?

I have been asked by Katie Soper to ask if there is any interest in the villages for a youth group for ages 12 - 16 years old.

If you have children in this age range and are interested in a group starting please contact me by email (martyn@stukeleymag.co.uk) and I will put you in contact with Katie.

St Bartholomew's Churchyard

There have been a number of occasions lately when questions have been raised regarding the placing of floral and other tributes on graves and the planting of plants on graves in the churchyard. The Church wardens and PCC wish to make it known that the matter is not under their control but is covered by regulations laid down by the Diocese of Ely.

Regulations state that with the exception of Christmas wreaths and poppy tributes, there should be no artificial material placed on graves or tombstones. If you wish to plant flowers or shrubs on graves you must apply to Ely Diocese for a Faculty. Details of how to apply can be found on the Ely Diocese website.

facultyonline.churchofengland.org

A lot of effort is made to ensure that the churchyard is maintained to the highest standard as a fitting memorial to those who have been laid to rest over centuries. We are but the custodians and are required to ensure that the standards and rules are being followed.

All artificial materials will be removed from the churchyard and held in the South porch until the end of October should anyone wish to recover the items. If you have planted a garden since 2019 without requesting the required Faculty you have until the end of November to apply, after that date the plants will be removed.

Introducing the not-for-profit East Anglian Astrophysical Research Organisation on Alconbury Weald.

www.EAARO.org.uk is an amazing idea and resource for our community. It's a radar astronomy space centre open to the public of all ages and abilities; fully equal opportunities focused. It's a location carrying out real research on our doorstep – somewhere you can use without travelling to Cambridge!

Three large experiments:

- Meteor watching using radar and sensitive sky-pointed cameras
 - SETI (The search for extraterrestrial life scientifically)
 - Neutrino search (A small, very energetic particle produced by stars colliding)
- (This is cutting edge science and a new branch of astronomy)

Many smaller experiments:

These are so accessible, that a 12-year-old girl, Erin identified two M class solar flares, later confirmed by NASA! Here's the youtube link to her describing her own experiment.

<https://bit.ly/3030E5R> What a CV, and all produced during lockdown! If you are :

- concerned about children's education suffering in the pandemic, or
- you want to improve your own skills preparing to return to work, or
- just have an interest in space as a hobby,

... you can join in and work on your own experiment.

Join a meteor watch event

The peak of the Orionids meteor shower is over the evening of 20th October. EAARO are taking bookings for up to 6 people for 50 minutes in an hour (leaving us 10 mins to covid clean). There is a charge for this, and cake, cookies and cocoa (or something else) will be provided. You can join in for free on the live youtube video posting.

Call for volunteers

Whatever your interest and skills, EAARO needs volunteers please, to help build a transmitter (basic DIYers and techie staff can join in, no previous special skills needed), decorators (we are hoping for a grant, but... appreciate funding is tight.) someone to answer our phone, receptionist for visitors ... serving teas and perhaps baking the odd cake, wanabe scientists of any age.

Covid restrictions and maintaining your safety

Like museums and cafes, EAARO is open during covid as we write this, but with covid secure limits eg groups of six, facemask requirement, 2m distancing and hand gel stations. There's been a visitors book since the site was created a year ago, so that is our primary track and trace system. For children and the vulnerable in our community, as an educational establishment, we put in place safeguarding measures and have NDA approved staff volunteers. It is managed by a STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering, Maths) Ambassador, Jason Williams who has a knack of explaining our space world in easy to understand ways for any age visitor, treating young people as individuals. No 'talking-down'. Deb Stevens is a local science advisory teacher so used to working safely with children and people with accessibility and learning issues – everyone is on a space discovery learning curve!

Building history

EAARO is located in a former cold war bunker, complete with blast doors and gun ports. Well worth a visit, and great to see old buildings revitalised!

Update from Alconbury Weald

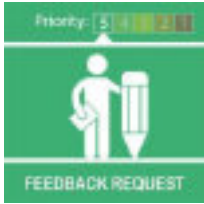

It has been a busy time up at Alconbury Weald, with both housebuilders, residents and businesses adapting to the changing Coronavirus guidance. While many of the events planned over the summer had to be cancelled, we were pleased to hold the Summer Saturdays “pop-up” events on Watch Office Green.

The rollout of the development continues with Hopkins Homes soon to launch their second parcel of homes within the development, and families moving into homes from Redrow, Morris, Crest Nicholson and Civic Living each week. We currently have just over 350 families and a growing school community at Ermine Street Church Academy.

While Covid has been a challenging time for many of our small businesses, it has been great to see the County Council HQ build continuing and due to open Spring 2021, and we are progressing planning applications which will complete the first phase of the Enterprise Zone with over a million square foot of space for businesses delivered.

We look forward to providing a full update in the next edition of our Make|News newsletter in November, but if you would like to talk to us in the meantime, please email alconbury@urbanandcivic.com or call 01480 413141.

Have Your Say on Road Safety Enforcement

Hello all,

In 2018 1,784 people were killed on Britain's roads – this included 456 pedestrians and 48 children. In addition, 25,511 people were seriously injured.

The Government is currently reviewing roads policing, and what the future of traffic law enforcement may look like. The Association of Police and Crime Commissioners are conducting a national survey and are keen to hear your views.

I would like to invite you to complete this short survey to help inform the Police and Crime Commissioner's response to Government.

The survey can be accessed by clicking this link <https://bit.ly/3kH0yIN>

The 60 second survey is open until 17:00 on the 30th September

Church services

We are still working on a temporary pattern for public worship as we find our way back into doing worship in a new way. Do come and join us

October 4th 9.30 am Holy Communion in St Bartholomew's

October 11th 9.30 am Morning Service in St Martin's

October 18th 9.30 am Harvest service, St Bartholomew's

Things are a bit different. In order to keep everyone safe we have to put certain measures in place at the moment. People are expected to wear face masks on entering the building unless exempt. You are asked to sanitize your hands on entering and also on leaving the building. Please observe social distancing. There is no singing, or coffee after the service. At Holy Communion services, the congregation cannot receive the wine currently. Things will change, but not for a while.

St Bartholomew's Church is open for individual prayer on Saturdays and Wednesdays from 10.00 am – 4.00pm.

St Martin's Church is open for individual prayer by arrangement with the churchwardens.

Rev Fiona Brampton (01480 538726 revfiona@norleigh.org.uk) and Rev Mandy Flaherty (01480 896541 rector@norleigh.org.uk) are available for prayer or a chat (by phone or in the garden).

If the situation changes, we will put the latest news on the Stukeley's facebook page, NextDoor and other social media, as well as the Benefice website (www.norleigh.org.uk) Please bear with us as we do this as safely as we can right across the benefice.
